Calendar 2016 Arms & Armour from Jaipur

The Maharaja Sewai Man Singh II Museum has a large and impressive collection of Indian and foreign arms and armours, including swords, spears and shields, muskets, matchlocks, blunderbusses, flintlocks, fowling pieces and the mounted equipment. In Jaipur, it is a well-known center for the study and research of arms and armours. The collection is housed in the Sewai Man Singh II Museum, Jaipur. The collection is housed in the Sewai Man Singh II Museum, Jaipur.

The friendly alliance between British and Kathiawar began in 1742 and the British began to buy Indian arms. The British were primarily interested in their specifications of arms and armours, their quality and design. Some pieces were also bought for their own use. The British were also interested in the Indian arms and armours. The British were also interested in the Indian arms and armours.
